

CORRECTION & STANDARDIZED FORMAT

Comprehensive Examination Paper with Detailed Correction & Model Answers

READING TEXT: MANNERS

Manners are behaviours used every day to make a good impression on others and to feel good about oneself. No matter where you are - Whether you are eating at a fancy restaurant, in the cafeteria, or at home with friends and families, good table manners make for a more pleasant meal. While you may not need to worry about confusing your salad fork with your desert fork when dining with friends, some basic table manners should never be forgotten. Here are some easy-to-follow Do's and Don'ts:

On one hand, you should sit properly (and straight) in your chair and talk to people about pleasant things instead of nonsense. Keep in mind that placing your napkin on your lap may be useful very frequently at any dinner table. Don't forget to wait until everyone is seated before starting to eat and asking someone to pass the food you need, rather than reach across the table. It is regarded very inconsiderate. You should chew with your mouth closed. you should say "excuse me" or "I'm sorry" if you burp. It is advisable to say "no thank you" if you don't want a certain dish or are full.

On the other hand, you should not overload your fork or plate. It is unacceptable to chew with your mouth open, it is considered impolite. It is not recommended well-mannered to push your plate away when you finish eating lean on the table.

Adapted: <http://mtstcil.org/skills/manners-1.html>Part One: Reading Comprehension & Mastery of Language (14 pts)*A- Reading Comprehension (7 points)*Task One: Match the answers in column B with the corresponding questions in column A. (3 pts)

Column A (Questions)	Column B (Answers)
1. What should you say if you burp?	1 → c. You should apologize.
2. What is the best time to start eating?	2 → a. When everyone is seated.
3. What is considered impolite while eating?	3 → b. Chewing with one's mouth open.

Task Two: Read the following statements and write True, False, or Not Mentioned. (2 pts)

- At a meal table, you should not sit improperly. (True)
- It is regarded impolite to chew with your mouth closed. (False) - It is polite; chewing with your mouth open is impolite.
- Thanking the host is respectful. (Not Mentioned) - Not explicitly stated in text words, though implied generally.
- Chewing food with your mouth wide-open is polite. (False) - It is considered impolite.

Lexis (2 points)• Task One (Synonyms):a) companions = friends (from text: "friends and families") | b) behaviours = manners (from text opening line)• Task Two (Antonyms):a) Bad ≠ good | b) Shut ≠ open (from "mouth closed" / "mouth open")B- Mastery of Language (7 points)*Task One: Add the correct prefix to form the opposite adjective. (2 pts)

Adjective	Prefix	Correct Opposite Form
-----------	--------	-----------------------

a) Real	ir-	irreal (or unreal)
b) Properly	im-	improperly
c) Visible	in-	invisible
d) Responsible	ir-	irresponsible

Task Two: Complete the sentences using the comparative of inferiority (not as ... as). (3 pts)

1. Eating healthy food is not as dangerous as junk food. (dangerous)
2. Walk for half an hour every day. You will not feel as unhealthy as before. (unhealthy)
3. Eating dairy products with moderation will not get you as weak as any other fat person. (weak)

Task Three: Match words that have the same rhyme. (2 pts)

Column A	Column B
1. fair	1 → d. pair
2. make	2 → a. late
3. tough	3 → c. enough
4. meat	4 → b. meet

Part Two: Situation of Integration (6 points)

Task: Write an e-mail to your friend giving advice on how to behave properly at a formal wedding dinner table, using modal auxiliaries (should / should not) and time sequencers.

Model E-Mail Production:

To: Karim@gmail.com
From: Amine@gmail.com
Subject: Friendly advice about our wedding dinner table manners

Dear Karim,

I am writing this e-mail because I want to give you some friendly advice about your behavior during the wedding dinner yesterday. It is very important to have good table manners at formal events.

First, you should be careful with your language and you should not shout when speaking across the table. Second, you should talk calmly and make polite conversation with those guests around you instead of talking about nonsense. Finally, you should not forget to thank the host and hostess for their wonderful hospitality before leaving.

Please keep these tips in mind for next time!

Best regards,
Amine