Mouloud Feraoun: A Voice of Algerian Culture and Memory

Algerian literature has been enriched by many great figures who dedicated their lives to preserving our national identity. Among them was the iconic writer and teacher, Mouloud Feraoun.

Mouloud Feraoun was born on March 8, 1913, in Tizi Hibel, Kabylie, Algeria. He pursued his education with passion and in 1935, he finished his studies at the École Normale in Bouzaréah, Algiers. Afterwards, he worked dedicatedly as a teacher and school principal.

In 1950, Feraoun published his famous autobiographical novel 'Le Fils du pauvre' (The Poor Man's Son), which brought him international acclaim. Later, between 1957 and 1962, he continued writing intimate diaries that documented the daily realities and struggles during the Algerian War of Independence.

Tragically, Mouloud Feraoun passed away on March 15, 1962, in Ben Aknoun, Algiers, just weeks before independence. Today, he remains a powerful symbol of Algerian literature, memory, and cultural pride.
